

Neonatal Respiratory System – Basic A & P

Course Description: This module reviews the anatomy and physiology of the newborn respiratory system, as well as normal and abnormal findings during daily assessments. A case scenario tests student understanding of the material.

Course Objectives:

- Describe the basic anatomy and physiology of the newborn respiratory system
- Differentiate normal and abnormal findings during newborn respiratory assessments
- Differentiate the various types of accessory muscle use and lung sounds in newborns